NEW ALBANY AND SALEM R. R .- By the present ime table on this old reliable route, passenger trains leave New Albany at 8.30 A. M. and 12.05 Passengers leaving New Albany at 12.05 and 9.35 P. M. make close connections at Mitchell with same trains on the Ohio & Mississippi road as are made by trains on the Jeffersonville road, leaving at 11 A. M. and 10 P. M., and passengers reach St. Louis at precisely the same time-2.45 A. M and 2.30 P. M. Passengers leaving St. Louis at 6.50 A. M. and

2.40 P. M. reach Louisville at 8.30 P. M. and 5 A. M .- in time to connect with trains on the Louisville and Lexington and Louisville and Nashville railroads.

Passengers will find this route as pleasant, quick eliable, safe and shorter than any route between Louisville and St. Louis.

REMARKABLE FULFILLMENT OF A GIPSY PRO-HECY-THE CHAMP CASE .- There was developed n the recent trial of Champ, in Lexington, for mmitting rape on his sister-in-law, Mrs. Champ, to nearly $35,000, as follows: ome curious and remarkable facts, which partake omewhat of the supernatural. It seems that a short time preceding the com-nission of the crime, a strolling Gipsy had stopped at the residence of Mrs. Champ, and had told her fortune. The Gipsy warned her of imminent peril, and pointed out her brother-in-law as the one by whom she would be most deeply injured. The facts subsequently disclosed in the trial fully corroborated the Gipsy prophecy .-Mrs. Champ, also, only a few hours before the oc currence, had a most singular dream. She dreamed that she was arrayed in a beautiful robe of spotless white, that a man approached and stabbed er, and that she distinctly saw the blood trick ing down and despoiling her dress. She looked ap, and saw it was her brother-in-law, Champ, who had committed the unnatural deed. This dream was but too typical of the horrid crime which Champ subsequently perpetrated.

The counsel for the defense seem to have relied n the circumstances above detailed to prove the asanity of Mrs. Champ. The counsel for the lady, however, contended that they were premoniions from heaven of impending danger.

DIED FROM SUN STROKE .- An elderly man, Al pert Jacobi, died from sun stroke yesterday, at the house of Mrs. Johnson, on Portland avenue, ear Sixteenth street. He was walking down the avenue, about 11 o'clock in the morning, and was observed to drop suddenly down, as if he had been shot. Some persons carried him into the shade, and Mrs. Johnson, a lady who lived close by, kindly had the unfortunate man removed to her house, where he died in a half hour. One of the men, as they were removing him to the house, said "He's drunk." The poor fellow said, "Oh! no, I am not," and never spoke afterwards. Be ore he died he seemed to struggle desperately, as f to speak, but the effort was ineffectual. In a short time his immortal spirit had crossed the onfines of the Invisible.

We are told he has no relatives here, and that etter from some one, who wrote that he "was sorry to know that he (Jacobi) was a poor wanderer." The Coroner's inquest is reported elsewhere.

Mr. S. G. Henry sold at public sale, or Wednesday afternoon, on the premises, four lots of ground, on Jackson street, west side, 20 feet front, by 991/2 deep, at $20 per foot. One lot northwest corner of Chestnut and Jackson, 50 feet front, by 100 deep, for $26 50 per foot. One lot depth, for $25 per foot. One lot adjoining same, 241/2 feet front, same depth, for $24 50 per foot making the sale average on Chestnut street over $44 per foot. The terms were, one fourth cash alance in four, eight, and twelve months, with nterest. Considering the very hot afternoon, the ttendance was large, and fully established the fact that where real estate is put up and legitinately sold, without the clap-trap and chicanery of by-bidding, fair prices can be obtained.

THE TUNNEL AT MULDRAUGH'S HILL.-We learn rom one of the excursionists on the L. & N. Railroad day before yesterday, that the great tun nel at Muldraugh's Hill will be ready for the pas sage of trains next month. The tunnel at the other end of the road, this side of Gallatin, Tenn. is now nearly ready for the passage of the loco motive, and it thus seems that the road is moving on rapidly to completion. We said in our article of vesterday, that the locomotive would possibly go through from Louisville to Nashville in October next, and we believe it will.

Shu THE WEATHER .- Yesterday was a perfect furnace. It melted mortals into water. It was hotter than any battle yet fought between the Zouves and Austrians. The western sun of the afternoon got a peep at our thermometer at 2 o'clock, and came nigh burning it up. The mercury ran up pretty near to the boiling point, and fearing an explosion we placed it in the shade. The last we saw of it, the mercury had got down to 98.

L. Victoria, a Mexican, who escaped from the workhouse some time since, was brought to the notice of Judge Johnston yesterday. His term had expired, and he could not be sent back for the old offense. He was bad scared, and promised to go over the river and never recross it gold. It was proved that it was inferior gold, and there was no evidence to show that Hennsler knew or thought it was not gold. He was discharged and he vamosed. SPORTING MATCH EXTRAORDINAY .- A pigeon shooting match will take place at Spring Garden, at 4 o'clock this evening, between Maj. Flinders and Capt. Metre, versus Col. Mercury and t. Reynard, old citizens. They shoot at six birds each, for something less than $500 a side. This event is causing much excitement among sporting circles. One gentleman had the temerity to

PIOTURES OF THE WAR.

Our readers have had by telegraph much of the spondence of Henry J. Raymond, editor of the New York Times, and of Malakoff, his special correspondent, who by a rare run of good luck witnessed the battle between the Chiese and

There are many interesting points in their letters, however, which we must find room for, as they give a vivid and life-like idea of the realities of war.

THE BATTLE-FIELD OF SALFERINO. I am afraid to venture upon any conjecture as to the number of killed and wounded in this battle; but from the nature of the case it must be enor-mous. I am confident that not less than ten thousand wounded have been brought into this village alone during the day—to say nothing of those that were left on the field or taken to other places.— The first intimation we received of an engagement having taken place, was from meeting three or four carts, drawn by oxen, and filled with wounded— before we reached Montechiaro on the road from Brescia. As we had heard of no battle, we nat-urally supposed that these wounds had been re-ceived in some skirmish. Soon after we met a one-horse carriage, in which was laid at full ength an officer of rank, whose face wore so ghast-y a look as to make it evident that he was dying. On reaching Montechiaro, and stopping for a mo-ment to rest our horses, we were told that a great battle was then going on in the plain before Cas-tiglione; and going at once to the summit of some old fortifications which once defended the town, we could see with our glasses the smoke of the engagement. We lost no time in pushing forward, although we were told that we could not ward, although we were told that we could not reach Castiglione because the roads were completely occupied by artillery held in reserve. We went on, however, continuing to meet carriages and carts laden with wounded, and passing the French camps of the previous night, came to a point at about half a mile from the town, where a park of artillery wagons was defiling from their camp in the road. Watching our chance, we drove in between two wagons, and so entered the town under cover of the enormous cloud of dust which thay raised. The main street was densely covered. hey raised. The main street was densely covthey raised. The main street was densely covered with earts, carriages, horses, donkeys, oxen, soldiers, suttlers, and persons and animals of every description. We pushed our way without hindrance, directly past the house marked as the Quartier Generale, or head-quarters of the Empe or and were thus within the camp. THE PROCESSION OF THE WOUNDED. We had gone but a short distance when we came to wherethe great procession of the wounded was turning to a church which had been taken for a hospital. It was certainly the most was here exhibited. All who were able to do so, were obliged to walk—the wagons and animals at hand being all required for those who could not otherwise be removed. Some walked along, their faces completely covered with blood from sabre cuts upon their heads. Many had their arms shattered,—hundreds had their hands tied up,—and some carried most ghastly wounds upon their faces. Some had tied up their wounds, and others had stripped away the clothing which chafed and made them worse. I saw one man walking along with a firm step and a resolute air—naked to his waist, and having a bullett-wound upon his side, an ugly gash along his cheek, and a deep bayonst an ugly gash along his cheek, and a deep bayonet thrust, received from behind, in his shoulder.— Most of those who were walking wore a serious look-conversing but little with one another, though they walked two in two-and few of them ression of pain.

Those who were more severely wounded rode apon donkeys or in carts, and a few were carried upon mattresses upon men's shoulders. But these were mostly officers, and nearly all I saw carried that way were so badly wounded that their re-covery is scarcely possible. One had both his legs crushed by a cannon-ball. Another had re-cerved a ball in the thigh, and was evidently suf-fering the most intense agony. Many of those whose wounds were in their legs, were seated in chairs swung across a donkey—one being upon each side. Several who were thus carried, and were supported by soldiers walking by their side, were apparently unconscious, and seemed to be dying. Then would come carts, large and small, carrying three, five, and some of them ten or fitteen each. A steady stream of these hastiy victims of the battle of the day poured through the town. I stood in the crowd by the side of them forts at the bar. He died at Halifax.

The steam engine No. 4 extinguished the fire which occurred on the alley between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, referred to yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. Campbell, President of Georgetown Collage sailed from Nor Verban War Verban church, every large hall, every private house is the town has been taken for the service of the wounded. Those whose injuries are slight, after having them dressed, pass at once into the ranks having them dressed, pass at once into the ranks and mingle with their comrades. I looked into the church as I passed by. All the seats, railings, &c., had been removed; mattresses of hay had been spread upon the floor, and were completely filled with wounded men, in every stage of suffering and of peril, lying sade by side. The surgeons were dressing their wounds; Sisters of Charity and other women were giving them wine and otherwise ministering to their comfort; but morning, I am sure, will dawn upon a large proportion of them relieved forever from their pain. If anything can be more horrible than a soldier's life, it certainly is a soldier's death.

When we drove into town, we were warned by a French gentleman, who had arrived a little before us, that unless we placed our carrige in the stable or grounds of some private citizen, it would cergrounds of some private citizen, it would certainly be seized for the services of the wounded as his had been. As it was all we could rely on for a bedroom as well as a means of locomotion, we were unwilling thus to lose it. On going to a pri-vate house, therefore, to make such an arrange-ment we found it had been taken for a hospital, and among its inmates was a vivandiere—a woman of perhaps 30, dressed in the style of the bloom ers, who had received a ball in her hand while fol lowing her occupation and carrying water and wine to the soldiers during the action. Two surgeons from the Emperor's family were dressing her wound—and though pale from the loss of blood she was conversing cheerfully and even gaily with them.

THE AUSTRIAN PRISONERS. Six or eight times while I stood upon the street watching the wounded, there came along squads of prisoners taken at various stages of the action. Semetimes there would be three or four—then twenty, fifty are hundred, and in one company over 400. They walked closely together six or eight deep-the officers being generally in the eight deep—the omeers being generally in the middle—and were guarded by a single file of troops walking on each side. As a general thing they are not bad looking men. Very many of them were very young—not over 16 certainly—and only now and then you would see a particularly brutal and stupid countenance. There was a thing like anyear or share on their faces: nothing like anger or shame on their faces; they seemed generally wholly indifferent to their position, but looked about with a good deal of curiosity upon the crowd which surrounced them. They are generally silent, though now and then they would talk and laugh with each other as they needed along. The officers were with they passed along. The officers were, with scarcely an exception, handsome, manly and in-telligent fellows. All were without arms. The orm of the men was a very coarse brown stuff, ade of flax, very plain, and with scarcely any atme in laden with wounded Austrians, hun dreds of whom passed along while I stood there, and were taken directly to the bospitals, where they received precisely the same treatment as the French, Most of them seemed very badly hurt. Among the number, both of the wounded and the prisoners, were many Hungarians.

THE BEHAVIOR OF THE WOUNDED FRENCH-THE PROFESSIONAL AIR.

If anything were wanting to prove that the French were the most admirable soldiers in the world, as well on the field of battle as when wounded, it was surely manifested on this memorable day. With the exception of a few men who was driver as they were inline along the streets. wounded, it was surely manifested on this memorable day. With the exception of a few men who were dying as they were jolting along the streets in the carts, and from whom escaped the involuntary groans of the dying hour, not a word of complaint was uttered; and I saw officers and men, on whom the blood was oozing from ghastly wounds, calmly smoking their pipes as they passed along on their way in search of an ambulonce and a surgeon. Altogether it was a fearful sight, and excited the pity of the most hard hearted. The women who had remained in the town of Castiglious shed tears apparently at the utter hopelessness of rendering assistance to such a number of brave and suffering men. Yet every house lessness of rendering assistance to such a number of brave and suffering men. Yet every house was thrown open, and every hand was ready to aid in alleviating their pains. For the most part they asked but for wine or water, for the loss of blood creates thirst, and the fatigues of the day must have been great from the length of the battle and the extent of ground to fight over. Many of the soldiers were naked to the waist, their coats having been torn to pieces in the bayonet and hand to hand fights, and their shirts torn up to staunch their blood. All were covered with dust and had their clothes more or less torn, both officers and men, and presented, even in the absence of blood stained clothes, the most pitiable appearance. But all who were not suffeing had stamped upon their countenances that quiet determined look which soldiers acquire in battle, and which is called in the French army the "protiglions shed tears apparently at the utter hope-lessness of rendering assistance to such a num-ber of brave and suffering men. oldiers in charge of the enormous train of the rmy, while in the rear of the town, there re-nained a reserve of 20,000 men to support the army in case of a disaster. Add to this, 10,000 or 15,000 wounded men in Castiglione, and several hundred thousand men scattered over the plain in conflict, and dead on the ground, and you piain in conflict, and dead on the ground, and you have a scene encompassed in a space of eight miles diameter, such, perhaps, as this land of great battle scenes never saw before. From the high peaked bluff from which we watched the last hours of the battle, all this scene could be taken in and comprehended at one glance. It was a great battle, and surely ought to decide, once for all, the vast superiority of French over Austrian arms. Austrian arms. RAYMOND SEES GARIBALDI.

When the name of this officer is men-ioned, either at Turin or at Milan, the counte nance of the speaker is lightened up, and it requires no great amount of penetration to discover that his name is the key to every heart. In fact, we have unmistakable evidence that the name of Garibaldi carries with it in the minds of the peo-ple an idea of republicanism, and that if they shout for King Victor Emmanuel and the Sardiraised up. SOLDIERS IN CAMP. After dusk I walked out upon the Place d'Armes

—a large, level open field beside the citadel.
Soldiers, of whom a thousand or so are here encamped, were mingled with citizens. Some were amusing the children—others were rehearsing to the curious canaille the history of their fights— and those more gallantly disposed were making themselves agreeable to the black-eyed but not overcleanly females, for whom camp life seemed to have a resistless fascination.

UNPARALLELED VALOR OF THE FRENCH SOLDIERS. On the battle field we gathered many details of the great struggle, which would require to nuch space to be repeated here. It appears clear rom these narratives, that at certain points, and from these narratives, that at certain points, and especially while the guard was still maintaining the shock of the whole Austrian army, some feats of unparalleled heroism were performed by the French soldiers. At the bridge of Magenta six hundred men held it; were repulsed, and retook several times their positions against a body of fifteen thousand Austrians, and would have been literally cut to pieces but for the timely arrival of Canrobert's corps from behind. Fifteen Zouaves at another place, actually pursued 600 Austrians, who had thrown away their guns and were in flight, and bayoneted a goodly number of them as they ran. Everything we have seen or heard confirms what you will have read a hunthem as they ran. Everything we have seen or heard confirms what you will have read a hundred times—that the battle came near being lost to the French by the tardy arrival of their Sardidian reserves. Neither the King nor the Pisdmontese took any part in the fight. The honor belongs entirely to the Emperor and to the French.

Among many lighter passages of the war with which the Parisians amuse themselves, we find in the sports the story of the capture of a detachment of Austrians, who were taken prisoners by the engineer of a railway. It appears that the Austrians were en route for Peschiera to re-inforce den. Urban, when the engineer, whose sympa-hies were naturally on the Italian side, switched off and conveved the heroes into the middle of he allied camp. Here they were politely escorted com the railway carriages by the French soldiers, who, with that amiable politeness for which the nation is distinguished, saluted their enemies with "All those who are going to France will please change cars." The feelings of the Austrians, at finding themselves taken prisoners in so ignoble a manner, may be imagined, but not described.

THE ENGLISH PRESS ON THE BATTLE OF SALFERING. [Frem the London Times, June 27th ]

The tremendous battle which raged from surrise to sunset of Friday last, had been looked for, and its result is not a surprise. The position of the contending armies rendered the occurrence of a great engagement a certain sequence to the last news, and there was a silent expectation prevalent emong all classes, a sentiment which all lent among all classes, a sentiment which, al-though it was seldom spoken, amounted almost to a conviction, that the event must be what the In Oliver of W. NUMBER 12.

[From the Liverpool Courier, June 29th.] At four o'clock in the bright summer morning of Friday last nearly 350,000 men stood on God's green earth, to begin the work of slaughter. For seventeen hours the multitude swayed to and fro in mortal strife; now here, now there, the surge of battle rolled until night closed in around the retreating ebb. As if hell itself had broken in considerable numbers, and some of these were large and magnificent physical men. But they were not quick enough nor powerful enough for our Turcos and Zouaves, who, while rendering justice to the good-will and obstinacy with which they fought, merely talked of their inferiority as a matter of course, and of their own success as equally a sure thing.

The Austrian Uniform, while convenient to the wearer, is most ungainly and unsoldier-like in appearance, consisting of a dust-colored coat, dirty green pantaloons, and a cap almost invisible from its size and color. The officers we saw were exceedingly handsome, gentlemanly looking men, and were distinguished more particularly from the men by a bright golden star on the front of a dark green cap. The officers walked in the middle of the gangs of prisoners, and although they

Hon. Linn Boyd.

We publish this morning a letter from the Hon. Linn Boyd, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor. For several months Col. Boyd has been prostrated by disease, but his friends will be gratified to learn that he is now convalescent, although physically unable to make a canvass .-He appeals to the Democracy of the State to yield him a united support, and this call, we are quite sure, will be heartily responded to.

No man is more endeared to the Democracy of Kentucky than Linn Boyd. They regard him as an able statesman, a tried patriot, and a life-long Democrat. His bold, out-spoken views on the question of the protection of slavery in the Territories are just such as we might expect from a statesman of Mr. Boyd's comprehensive mind and enlarged experience. The letter will do great good. It will arouse the Democracy of the tate, and legions of Democrats-good, true, and oyal-will rush to the polls on the first Monday in August to vote for Linn Boyd.

TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY. Through the partiality of my Democratic tiends, I was nominated for the office of Lieu-mant Governor of the State; and such was the manimity of the Convention in their call upon ne to take that position, that, as a Democrat, I tid not feel at liberty to decline.

It was my purpose to canvass the State thoroughly, and discuss fully all the great political questions of the day, so that none could be missled as to my views and opinions. In this I have been disappointed by a sore affliction, by which I have been confined to my room, and mainly to my bed, since early in March last. But through the skill of Professor Pencoast of Philadelphic my bed, since early in March last. But through the skill of Professor Pancoast, of Philadelphia, one by one the complicated diseases with which I was afflicted gave way, and I am now convalescent; but I regret to say, too feeble to engage in the canvass. My physicians, however, inspire me with the confident hope that I will be fully restored in time to discharge the duties of the office, if elected. During my'extreme illness I received numerous communications from my friends in Kentucky (some of them political) to all of which I would have been pleased to have responded fully, but was physically unable to do so. Such was my prostrate condition at one time, that I was strongly inclined to withdraw from the contest; but of a number of letters received from contest; but of a number of letters received from various parts of the State upon that sus-ect, all, with one single exception, urged me strongly to continue a candidate; and with but the single purpose of meeting the wishes of myfriends, and as far as possible to aid wishes of myriedus, and as far as possible to and in carrying out the principles of the Democratic party, to which I have devoted my whole political life, I yielded to the advice thus given.— Without intending, here, to discuss the political topics of the day, it may not be inappropriate for me to indulge in a single remark in reference to the question of slavery in the Territories. By the Legislation of Congress, it is clearly the rig and duty of the Territorial Legislatures to gu d outraged, I trust that very few will be found deny that to Congress belongs the power and

The Editor of the Journal on Slavery. Webster derives the word impudence from the Latin impudens, and defines its meaning pretty well by the use of shamelessness, effrontery, assurance, &c. To those acquainted with his character, a better definition of impudence would have been, "the editor of the Louisville Journal," and we suggest that the next lexicographer who gets up a dictionary shall so define the term. No synonym, circumlocution, explanation, or exemplification, could give so complete an idea of impudence as the suggestion of the editor of the Journal, by those who attempt to define the

This editor of the Louisville Journal was born in Abolition Connecticut, and reared in the midst of enough freeniggerism to make him write for a soon as he got out of his teens. But now that he has left his early haunts and migrated to Kentucky, he presumes to pronounce such pro-slavery men as the Hon. James Guthrie and ourselves unsound on the slavery question. Was there ever such impudence, shamelessness, effrontery, and assurance? Only think of the man's record upon the slavery question ! True to the doctrines taught him in free negro

Connecticut, the editor of the Journal expressed his true views upon slavery when he wrote against the increase of the area of African bondage in this country. When the South was talking of annex. ing Texas to the Union, the editor of the Journal opposed the proposition most bitterly, because it would enlarge the area of slavery. He spoke of the measure in the following style:

"Every man who does not wish too see the powers of the Northern and Western States depart forever, every man who does not wish to see a dozen new slave States added to the Union, and to hear the cries of additional millions of wretched negroes going up to meet the Lord in the air, and ce upon our land, will oppose he purchase of Texas with a deep and irresistible

Not content, however, with being opposed to the enlargement of the area of slavery, he contended that no man had a right to hold an African as a slave, and that slavery was a curse to this country. He spoke of the subject in language worthy of a Garrison, a Giddings, a Seward, or a Fred Douglas himself. Among other things he said: "All men have a right to liberty, no matter what olor." * " "Slavery is a dreadful vampire, lemining the life blood of the republic."

After using the above language, it was to be ex. ected that the editor of the Journal would be in favor not only of confining slavery within its present limits, with the hope perhaps of starving it out but also of exterminating all of it that existed by the process of emancipation. He was for freeing every negro, and used the following words upon that subject.

"A conviction of the expediency and necessity of ultimate emancipation has been spreading far ther and farther among our countrymen, and tak ing deeper and deeper root in their minds, and i equires not the spirit of prophecy to foretell the

And that there might be no mistake about bis ideas of emancipation, the editor of the Journal expressed the hope after he came to Kentucky and saw the workings of slavery in this State that he would live to see the day when all our ect was as follows :

"We have ever looked forward to the day when bondmen, and we hope to live to see the light of

Indeed it has been but a few short months since the editor of the Journal proposed to form a party of which the Black Republicans of the North should be the controlling element. He said these Freesoilers were patriotic and conservative, and that Southern slave owners could unite with them without any sacrifice of principle. He went into ecstacies over the idea of an ion with these men of the North, and hesitated not to indorse the declaration of one of his confederates who said he would like to have a State of free negroes help Southern slaveholders and Northern freedom-shrickers to elect those who were to control the destinies of the nation. The following words contain the sentiment indorsed by the editor of the Journal as late as February

"If there was a State in the Union composed of free negroes, and the Constitution gave them the right to vote, I should be much obliged to them to help me to elect our party."

And yet, with such a record as this spread over the papers with which he has been connected, the editor of the Journal has the impudence to talk about Southerners, born upon Southern soil, reared in the midst of slaveholding neighbors, and owning slaves themselves, not being sound on the slavery question. Such things remind one of Satan preaching goodness, and the warrior talking peace; but they suggest to no candid man that their way. She usually dons red feathers, but the editor of the Louisville Journal is a friend to this winter she wears a bonnet without any crown the South and slavery. His record is against him, and no matter how much he talks about the is filled with the gayest scarlet flowers, protection of the rights of slaveholders in the greatest profusion, and for some little distance Territories, in violation of the platform to which he is pledged, no sensible man will believe that he would be for protection except with the hope of bringing the slavery question before a Congress of his Northern allies, who would abolish the protection of the platform to which he produced is necessary to the provide the protection of the platform to which he greatest profusion, and for some little distance you see nothing on the street but the bounce. The Lexington Observer and Reporter says that Capt. Simms, and other Democratic candidates, "have declared that they will vote for Stephen A. Douglas for President, with all his edious 'Squatter Sovereignty' doctrines fully avowed and never recanted, if the party shall nominate him."

The Observer and Reporter well knows that Capt, Simms, explicitly declared at Paris, that he would not support Judge Douglas with such doctrines. Having subsequently, at Carlisle, in answer to his opponent, affirmed his intention to support the nominee of the Charleston Convention, with the Cincinnati platform, Mr. Harlan, the next day, at Flat-Rock, contended that as Douglas construed the Cincinnati platform to contain his Freeport doctrines, Capt. Simms was pledged to support him with those doctrines. Capt. Simms contended, that having made the declaration he did at Paris, no such inference could be legitimately drawn. From his remarks, Douglas, every one knew, did not stand the ghost of a chance for the nomination. The South had always had a controlling power in the Democratic party. and has not been rebuilt. The distillery of Schrodt & Laval, now the only one in operation here, is on the west side of Second street, between Washington and Water streets. It is, no doubt, as well constructed and as conveniently arranged for business as any other distillery in the western country. The boiler, engine, pumps, and distilling apparates throughout, embrace all the improvements in that the remedy was a good one, and was determined to try it, and wait until I had tested it up to the time this factory was constructed. It was arranged with a view to economy in fuel, labor, and space in the buildings occupied, and appears to have been eminently successful in each of those important particulars.

The manufacture of alcohol is important in many respects. As a chemical agent it is of the highest importance, involving in its various combinations all the grand principles of chemistry. Obtained by slow and careful distillation, it is a limpid, colorless liquid, of an agreeable smell, and a strong, pungent flavor. It is extremely inflamable, and burns with a pale blue flame, scarcely visible in bright day light. It occasions no sooty or smoky deposit upon substances held over it while burning. The steady and uniform heat which it gives during combustion, makes it a valuable material for lamps. Hence, it is used extensively by hotels, restaurants and steambeats. It is sold by all druggists, and is consumed in large quantities by chemists in the preparation f drugs and chemicals of many kinds. The annual consumption of this article in the United States is not only large, but is steadily increasing. It also forms a considerable item in the exports to foreign countries. The alcohol distilled here is sold to druggists and chemists in this city, and to dealers and others in the markets of the Southern States. The manufacturers say that they find a ready sale at remunerative prices for all they produce. Their brand is coming into general favor, and the business here, although yet in its infancy, may be regarded as ermanently established, and is likely to be an acreasing one.

This factory has the capacity to consume one hundred barrels of whisky daily, which will produce sixty barrels of alcohol. If only run two hundred days in the year the product would be twelve housand barrels per annum. At the present selling rates it is worth, say $21 per barrel, which would give an aggregate of over $250,000 Black Republican paper in his native State so as the estimated value of the alcohol made in this

Among the sights to be seen from my window, is Mad. Bonaparte, who still retains the marks of beauty in her fair skin and arched eyebrows. She wears that everiasting ornament on her forehead that has been there all her life. You should see her on the street with the little green bag, going to the bank to look after her money. She has a peculiar way of catching up her dress, (which in summer is a brown berage over white) thereby dis-covering to the world a pair of little feet and ankles that has been her pride, now encased in the ugliest shoes one could imagine. Her bonnets, which she manufactures herself, are models in old-fashion, sun-bonnet shape. The front, by some ingenious trick is made to flare considerably, and makes friends with her at once, but woe to the uninitiated stranger that speaks of the son. ORIGIN OF THE IMPERIAL GUARD .- The Imperial Guard originated in the first campaign of Napoleon I, after the taking of Milan, when the French were in pursuit of the retreating Austrians near the river Mincio. The circumstances are thus narrated by Abbott, in his Life of Bonaparte: Though the Austrians were some fifteen thousand strong, and though they had partially de-molished the bridge, the march of Napoleon was retarded scarcely an hour. Napoleon was that day sick, suffering from a violent headache. Having crossed the river, and concerted all his plans for the pursuit of the flying enemy, he went into an old castle by the river side to try the effects of a foot-bath. He had but a small retinue with him, his soldiers being dispersed in the pursuit of the footilities.

He had just placed his feet in the warm water, when he heard the loud clatter of horses' hoofs, as a squadron of Austrian dragoons galloped into the court yard. The sentinel at the door shouted "To arms! to arms! the Austrians!" Napoleon sprang from the bath, hastily drew on one boot and with the other in his hand, leaped from the window, escaped to the garden through the back gate, mounted a horse, and galloped to Massens's division, who were cooking their dinner, at a short distance from the castle. The appearance of their commander in chief among them in such a plight, roused the soldiers from their camp kettles, and they rushed in pursuit of the Austrians, who, in their turn, retreated. This personal risk induced Napoleon to establish a body guard, to consist of wide renown.

The Hog Cholera

We presume there is not a particle of doubt of Alchohol was first introduced into this city. Two | the fact that Mr. Hiram McGehee, of this city, is changed hands, and early in 1858 was burned, certainly strong evidence of its efficacy:

LEXINGTON, FAYETTE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, ? July 12th, 1859. MR. McGehee—Dear Sir: I wrote you some time ago for the purpose of assertaining whether you regarded your prescription as a cure of hog cholera, or whether you were in possession of a cure as well as a preventive; you sent me your chart, together with Mr. Curd's certificate, without having received the fee, ($5). When I examined your chart I became satisfied pelore I sent the money, believing that from the confidence you expressed, that you were willing for it to be tested fairly. I also waited for the purpose of sending you the result of my faithful observance of your doctrines, the effect, and my

When I received your chart I had nineteen aogs, eighteen in one lot and one in another, the only one left of eleven that had died of cholera, and it had been under the disease for more than month, and looked like dying every moment. The lot of eighteen were all more or less affected with the disease; two them had it badly, and one of them died in a few days after I received your chart; the other, I think, is relieved, while the others are, I think, entirely clear of the disease. The odd hog that was left of the first lot has taken the prescription, by putting him in a close pen and not permitting him to have anything to eat, except what the chart directed, and although it took him longer to consume his than the others, et he used it all, and is still alive and is eating ut is nothing but a living skeleton; and I be eve now, what I never thought, that he will get well. I am now, therefore, prepared to say that I am perfectly satisfied that your prescription is a preventive, and I believe a cure, and think that every owner of hogs should obtain your chart and use it, whether his hogs have cholera r not: for I am sure that hogs will not take cholra or any other disease, while treated in the way our chart directs. I have tried more remedies cholera than any person I have heard of, and while I have tried your prescription very partially before, which did more good than any other, yet there has been nothing that I have tried that has proved anything like your chart. I inclose a five dollar bill, together with my thanks for your confidence in sending me your chart without the oney; also, I am under obligation to you for our discovery, for I believe and feel assured bat it has saved me a lot of hogs.

You are at liberty to publish this if you wish.

I am very respectfully yours, &c., SAMUEL DOWNING. MIXING THE BABIES .- Some time ago, save the rinity Journal, there was a dancing party given up north;" most of the ladies present had little pabies, whose noisy perversity required too nuch attention to permit the mothers to enjoy he dance. A number of gallant young men lunteered to watch the young ones while the rents indulged in a "break down." No sooner d the women left the babies in charge of the schievous fellows, than they stripped the inants, changed their clothes, giving to one the apparel of another. The dance over, it was time to go home, and the mothers hurriedly took each baby, in the dress of her own, and started some to their homes, ten or fifteen miles off, and were far on the way before daylight. But the day following, there was a prodigious row in that settlement; mothers discovered that a single day had changed the sex of their babies—obserration disclosed startling physiological phenomena, and then commenced some of the tallest female pedestrianism; living miles apart, it reuired two days to unmix the babies cting scene from a Sickles drama: Indignant husband to wife's lover-ou have dishonored me, and must die!" Makes a which a dagger.

Wife serzing the dagger—"Hold, rash, wretched, imprudent man! What would you do?

Would you murder the father of your children?"

Husband caves, and father of his children carries straight coat-tail through front door. Candid.—Cook: "Fine day, Mr. Chalk!" Mr. Chalk: "Yes, Cookey, it's a very fine day; but if we haven't some rain soon, I don't know what we shall do for milk."

It is only necessary to grow old to become more indulgent. I see no fault committed that I have not committed myself.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION being primarily and essentially due to a disordered nutrition, can be rationally attacked only by a medicine which repovates the nutritive powers. This DELICIOUS TONIC especially designed for the use of the Medical Profession and the Family, possesses those intrinsic medicinal properties (Tonic and Diuretic) which belong to an Old and PURE GIN. The business of manufacturing spurious gins, and offering them as beverages, under the titles, "Aromatic,"-" Cordial,"-" Medicated," etc., has become so common, that the public are justly suspicious of nearly everything that is offered under similar forms, and the trade has thus been brought into disrepute It has remained for our house (established in 1778) to supply the pressing popular need, and to inaugurate a new era in the history of the Trade. We trust that our established reputation — founded upon eighty years of experience - abundantly vindicates our claim to public confidence.

MASONIC NOTICE.

THE NEW YORK Gentlemen's Boot and Shoe Store.

Sixth street, near Main, in the Exchange Hotel Building,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

S. R. PORTER, in soliciting the patronage of the inhabitarts of this city and the community at large, in the above business, begs to invite attention to a few plain facts in connection with the artof Boot and Shoe making, and more particularly to the fitting of the same, being fully convinced that the pains and inconveniences under which so many persons suffer, arises from unequal pressure on certain portions of the feet, which causes corns, bunnions, and other unnatural formations of the foot, which may be removed with due attention to the formation of the boot or shoe.

S. R. Porter guarantees a gool and easy fit, each article being made under his own superintendence. It is an indisputable fact that corns and bunnions are caused by unequalled pressure on the foot, consequentily boots or shoes not fitting properly will produce them if the boot or shoe therefore be not formed according to the position of the foot; when the weight of the body presses upon it there must of necessity be an unequal pressure, which, with the friction occasioned by walking, irritates and produces those afflictions, hence it is from the boots or shoes not fitting the foot properly, a defect solely to be attributed to the manufacturer who may not possess sufficient knowledge of his business that has caused the many to suffer from the ignorance of the few, both in health and wealth—in the former instance by pains occasioned by corns, &c., and in the latter by connelling nersons to cut their boots and challed. has caused the many to suffer from the ignorance of the few, both in healist and wealth—in the former instance by pains occasioned by corns, &c., and in the latter by compelling persons to cut their boots and shoes to give ease, or sacrifice such articles before they are half worn out, and inflicting a grevious wrong upon the public at large. In regard to that essential point, the properly fitting of the foot, boot making ought to be regarded as an important science, although it is generally considered as a very simple business. This arrises from the great number of boot and shoe sellers not manufacturers, because many, very many, who sell those articles are not in the slightest degree acquainted with the making of either, and many of the articles sold in such shops are frequently made from the one last, as if all feet were precisely the same shape, a thing as utterly impossible as it is to see two persons with precisely the same features. The fact is, they are made for sale, and the comfort of the purchaser is not in the slightest degree attended to, while the material is frequently of the very worst, the workmanship inferior, cheapness being the only point considered, but too often turns out to be the dearest.

But S. R. Porter will not adopt that course, but assures those that favors him with a trial that the article shall be manufactbred of the best material, the best workmanship, and the lowest remunerative prices. We have now on hand a fine lot of Gents' Boots, Shoes and Gaiters. We take the draft of the foot so your boot or shoe is shaped to it. Corns cut and all other imperfections of the feet attended to without causing the slightest pain. Persons waited on at their own houses. Remember the new Boot Store, Exchance building, Sixth street, near Main.

THE RIVER has commenced falling, and it will now go down in good earnest, as the long continued hot weather and drouth bave parched the earth to such an extent that an immense quantity of rain would be required to even moisten the surface. In the canal last evening there were barely four feet five inches water by the mark, which indicates a fall of about two inches at the head of the falls in the previous twenty-four hours. The weather, which was warm enough all the week for even a salamander, appears to have reached its culminating point, or we hope it has, it being even warmer yesterday than the day before, which, of course, marks it down as the warmest day of the season. By the thermometer, in the shade, the heat at 10 o'clock in the morning was 94, and at noon it stood at 96, and still

The heat of the sun was so intense that the najority of the workmen in the various ship yards would not turn out at all yesterday, and only about one-third the usual complement could be induced to do half a day's work.

In the evening the heat was rather greater than before noon, the mercury running up to early blood heat in the shade, having rea 8, which is the highest of the season, and fully degrees higher than we ever again want to exence it. Last evening it was much cooler By our dispatches it appears that the river is lling fast at Cincinnati and Pittsburg; also the Mississippi at Saint Louis, with of course even ter weather than we have here.

The Pacific brought to this port a lot of eaches, the first of the season.

For Careo and St. Louis.—Shippers must bear in mind that the staunch light-draught packet John Tompkins is now at the city wharf, receiv-ing a cargo for Cairo and St. Louis. She goes errow evening, and takes Southern freight, with the privilege of reshipping. Thanks to our courteous friend. Robert lates, a manifest and memorandum. She had a good trip, and was full of passengers.

Capt. Jesse Bell has concluded to lay the Pacific up for the season, and landed her at Shipingsport, where she will remain in summer quar ers until the fall campaign opens.

The Pacific has made a highly prosperous as well as a long season, carrying thousands of pas-sengers, and meeting with no bad luck, accident, or delay—truly an admirable boat. As an evidence of the great heat of the in, we cite the fact that a bale of oakum, at Howard's ship yard, saturated with linseed which was exposed to the sun, yesterday caught fire and burnt up. The Fanny Bullitt cleared for New Orleans ast evening with a good trip, including a large number of Kentucky mules.

FOR NEW ORLEANS.—The splendid light draught summer packet E. H. Fairchild, having been de-ained, takes her departure to New Orleans this vening. She starts at 5 o'clock, from Portland, roviding choice fare and accommodations for bassengers. She has large roomy guards, and being of unusual light draught, will not be deayed by sand bars. The clerk, Richard Fuller, svery attentive and polite. The Aurora, from New Orleans, R. M. Paton, from Tennessee river, Moderator, from Stous, and Kentucky, from Memphis, have all assed Evansville, and were due last evening. The little Effort succeeded last week in eaching New Orleans from the upper river, and went to dock to repair.

The officers and crew of the Landis, recently sold in New Orleans, to be used as a tow boot, arrived here yesterday on the Pacific. The Woodford left New Orleans Monday vening for this port.

RAILROAD AND STEAMBOAT CONNECTIONS.—The nanagers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, by means of handbills, are seeking bids from teamboat owners for sealed contracts for the transportation of freights over that railroad.—They want to establish the rates of transportation for the contract of the contrac n from this port and other Ohio river points to htimora, New York, Philadelphia and Boston, ia the river and the Baltimore Railroad.

This looks like a plan got up for the especial dvantage of the railroad, the steamboats to sork for the benefit of the railroad. The road cannot very well get along without the boats and the freight, and we would advise our boat-men to be cautious in dealing with railroad mon-opolies, and let them in turn advertise for sealed contracts from the railroad company.

OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER, THURSDAY EVENING, July 14. MONEY MATTERS. The money market has been decidedly easy to-day.

The wants of the business men have not been large, and have been readily supplied, but little, if any, really good paper having been rejected by the Banks. For the next sixty days, during the dull season, it is anticipated that the applications for discounts will be limited, except so far as money may be wanted to aid in sending the Wheat crop to market. The Cincinnati Gazette of this morning says:

The Cincinnati Gazette of this morning says:

There was less demand for money to-day, and the market was proportionately easier, but the general features of the financial affairs have not undergone any material change. The offerings are closely scrutinized and the d'scount houses manifest no disposition to purchase paper beyond the legitimate wants of depositors, and names that do not grade well meet with but little favor. FRENCH TROPICAL mittent and Intermittent Fever, and all Billious Complaints.

It is a well known fact that the different fevers and billious complaints are caused by the poisonous miasma and exhalations from the surface of the earth, which are taken into the system by respiration. To neutralise this subtlejoison and counteract its effect upon the system, is therefore what we have to aim at, and with this view the "French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture" has been prepared.

The high reputation which this medicine has gained within so short a timeling the South and West where it has been introduced, is a sufficient proof for its superiority above all other compounds of the same kind.

As an antidote to malaria, this medicine sfands unrivalled; and as it is purely vegetable, it can be safely given to children and delicate patients, not only in case of fever, but in all cases where a good tonic is required. The French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture is prepared by ib.
